Through the bunching of hits and a eautiful home-run drive over the left field fence, Baltimore defeated Washington yesterday by the score of 6 to 4. The contest from start to finish was good to look at.

the batting of the locals being heavy in spots, while the Orioles confined almost all their hitting to one inning. Several errors of the costly sort crept into the Senators' score, but the visitors made them also, and honors were almost even in this respect. With the exception of seeing Twirler Mercer on the rubber once more fully 3,000 spectators journeyed to the park, and were well repaid for the visit. The ex-Senator was in good form, and held the Baltimores down to five hits, but the heart-breaking drive of Foutz for four Opposed to Mercer on the rubber was 'Iron Man" McGinnity, and his delivery proved a puzzle, the ball being hit freely by only Farrell and Everett, although a total of nine safeties was placed to the credit of the Washington men. Farrell, especially, took a liking to McGinnity's delivery, and hammered out two doubles and two singles, having a batting average of 1000 on the day, as his other try was a sacrifice, placing him four times at the bat. Everett also was something of a factor in the Senators' score, his drive for three bases sending two runs over the bases turned the trick for his team.

In the field Second Baseman Quinn, Clingman and Coughlin were seen to the best advantage, the first named capturing eleven out of twelve chances, his one error being on an easy chance. At short and third everything was attended to with energetic dispatch which came that way, not a misplay being charged against either. Everybody seemed to play together, but the unlooked-for home run is what drove the Senators to tall timber.

How the Runs Were Made. Neither side scored in the first two in nings, but in the third Washington broke the ice. After two were out Mercer secured his base on balls, and two timely hits by Farrell and Everett sent him over

In the fourth the Baltimores worked in their grand coup, the home run of Foutz being in evidence. Doulin hit into center for a single and went all the way to third on Farrell's error. Williams followed with another hit scoring Donlin. Keister then flew out to Everett and Seymour died at first, Quinn to Everett. Jackson was then given a base on balls, and with first and second occupied, Mr. Foutz walked to the plate, caught one of Mercer's slow drops on the end of his bat and sent it flying over the left field fence into the gully beyond. It was a beautiful hit, and after the spec-tators had gulped down their sorrow the Oriole batter was given plenty of applause. In the fifth Washington raised the hopes of the local "fans" by getting two runs over the plate and crawling up to within one run of tying the score. After Clarke had fouled out to McGraw, Mercer hit into left field for two bases and Farrell, in trying to sacrifice him to third, batted to McGinnity, who fumbled the ball. Everett then drove out the beauty for three bags, the ball hitting the left field fence and bounding away toward center, bringing in In the seventh both sides did business in the run-making line. Foutz was hit by Mercer and walked; Bresnehan's hit to covered. After striking out McGinnity, Mercer sent McGraw to first on balls, filling the bases. Foutz came home on Don-lin's long hit to third, Everett dropping the throw, and Bresnehan crossed the plate the throw, and Bresnehan crossed the plate a minute later when the ball slipped out

"Everybody up for the lucky seventh." was the cry, but only one run resulted. Clarke was hit by McGinnity, and after Mercer had flown out to Donlin, Farrell hit into left for two bases, bringing the Senator's catcher crossed the plate. This made the score 6 to 4, and as neither side got a man over the rubber in the last two innings, they were the final figures. Following is the official score: Washingt'n, R. H. O. A.E. | Baltimore, R. H. O. A.E. Washingt B. R. H. O. A.E. Baltimore, R. H. O. A.E. Base Ball Notes. The Orioles were lucky.

Manager McGraw evidently wanted vesterday's game very much. It was Howell's turn to go on the rubber, but McGinnity once more took up the running.

One of the pleasantest features of the local games has been the absence of prolonged wrangling over umpire's decisions. As there was no sun out during the game yesterday Jackson in center for the Orioles acquitted himself all right, his two put out being of the sensational order.
Case Patten may be opposed to Howell this afternoon, and another good game should be forthcoming.

Manager Manning has assigned private boxes to each one of the local papers, and the newspaper men appreciate the courtesy.
The large crowd which has been gathering on the hills outside the left field fence will find their occupation gone after today. Huge canvass curtains will be swung to telegraph poles today, and hereafter those who were wont to sit on "dead-head hill" will have to pay if they want to see the President Postal leaves for his home in Detroit this evening. He is well pleased with the new park and club and expects plenty of entertainment when the Senators President Burns of the Detroit team are great friends, and have been "joshing" great friends, and have been "joshing" each other for the past month over the comparative ability of the two teams.

Roger Bresnehan, who did the twirling for Baltimore Tuesday, was behind the bat yesterday and acquitted himself finely. His throwing is of the very best, but high fouls bothered him somewhat. Robinson and Latimer are not in shape, and Roger will probably do the regular catching for some first appearance in Washington, and a big crowd will doubtless turn out to welcome "Buck" Freeman and Capt. Jimmy Col-lins. Ex-Senator Tommy Dowd is also with the Bostonese and is playing good

President Comiskey was boiling with anger after Saturday's game and said he was going to stop some of that Detroit rowdyism hereafter if there was any virtue in the rules or any sand in Connolly. "The American League didn't get its reputation that way," said he, "and we can't afford to lost it that way, either."-Chicago Record-Herald.

Patsy Donovan is getting good work out of the Cardinals. With a couple of star twirlers added to his present staff Mr. Donovan's bunch would be very much in it. The outfield is good, Padden has plug-ged up a hole in the infield and the men seem to be working in harmony.
Hugh Jennings is firmly of the opinion that a player who has signed a contract-other than the optional clause contract of 1900-should live up to his agreement, and if he attempts to evade it without having right sent him to third. A minute later first secured an honorable release, should Roger stole second, as the base was not be forced to fulfill it by the adoption of legal measures. A friend of Connie Mack says the Amer-ined he had the grip. He made the journey to Baltimore with his comrades, however, and when he reached the hotel was in high state of fever. A physician was summoned, who found that the player had the measles. Jones will be all right again in a few days.—Baltimore News.

As a sample of the sublime confidence re-posed in the Brooklyn team a remark made by the usually conservative Jim McGuire may be sufficient. A Philadelphia "rooter" started to guy the veteran backstop on the weakness of the Brooklyn team, as a result of the desertion of McGinnity and Jones.

"Why," said Jim, with a grin, "we'll stop playing on the 1st of August." "How's that?" asked the Philadelphian, with evident surprise. "Won't have to play any more," replied

Jim. "We'll be so far ahead of the rest that they won't be able to catch up." The Quaker "rooter" disappeared from the neighborhood immediately.-Boston Globe. "I do not like the league rule compelling the catcher to stand close behind the bat all the time," says "Cy" Young of the Boston club. "It handleaps a pitcher. I do not want my catcher to stand too close. I cannot extend myself as I would like. Again, I think the rule forbidding to warm up a poor one. It is a hardship on a pitcher, for the reason that ou want to get the kinks out of your arm. Now, it would have been all right had a limit been put to the amount of warming up that is to be allowed. It is all right to hurry up matters at times, but when it is done at the expense of the skill of the performers it is a mistake. Fancy a rule that would prohibit drivers from warming up their horses previous to a race. Why, it would be ridiculous. They tell us the rules were not made for the players. Well, it does look that way from a National League

Potomacs' Boat Was Saved. Fire destroyed the boat-building establishment of Waters & Sons at Troy, N. Y., Tuesday. By great effort the employes succeeded in saving the boat to be used by the University of Pennsylvania in the Henley regatta, and also another one for the Potomac Boat Club of this city. A number of other half-finished boats were burned. The total damage will reach $30,-000, and only half of the amount is covered Transportation Facilities Wanted. A patron of base ball writes to suggest that the Washington Traction Company extend transportation facilities to those people living in the eastern and southeastern part of the city. Now they have to walk to the grounds if they want to see a base ball game. He suggests that a line of herdics be run from 14th street northeast to connect with the East Capitol street cars,

BOYS SENT TO REFORM SCHOOL.

Young North Carolinians Accused of Making Moonshine Whisky. Bennett and Everett Holloman, brothers, fifteen and sixteen years old, respectively, arrived here last night from Greensboro', N. C., to spend one year in the reform school. The boys were arrested and tried on a charge of making "block" or "moonshine" whisky. A man who was arrested with them, they stated, was given six months in at the house of detention, and were sent to the reform school this morning. With them was a small colored boy named Fletcher Evans, who celebrated his twelfth birthday yesterday. He was convicted at Gibsonville, N. C., of a charge of robbing the post office of 50 cents and sentenced to the Cheltenham, Md., reformatory for a year. He denies that he com-mitted the theft.

Kneisel Quartet. The program arranged for the concert of the Kneisel Quartet on next Monday at the National Rifles' Armory is one of unusual interest. Two complete quartets will be given, the concert opening with one of the earlier works of Beethoven, in strictly classic form, thoroughly representative of the style of quartet writing which found its culmination in this period of his life. The romantic writers are represented by the last number, a quartet of Tschaikowsky, the Titanic Russian, whose work embodies the most advanced ideals in writing for four stringed instruments. Between these numbers will be introduced movements from quartets by Mendelssohn and Schumann and solo numbers for Mr. Kneisel and Mr. Schroeder, the former an air by Bach and the latter the well-known Lento, originally written for piano, but arranged with the composer's approval for violoncello.  Samuel Friedlander & Co.. 416-SEVENTH ST.
